

Abstract of the Invention

Avilamycin derivatives, gene technology biosynthesis processes for their production, medications containing these compounds, as well as the use of these compounds for the production of a active agent against infectious diseases, as well as nucleic acids, proteins, and gene clusters and corresponding cells that are connected to the production of these avilamycin derivatives are disclosed.